ANDROCLES AND THE LION

George Bernard Shaw's charming comedy begins when Androcles, a gentle Greek tailor, befriends a ferocious lion named Tommy by pulling a thorn out of his paw. Later on, Androcles turns up with a jubilant band of hymn singing Christian martyrs and is thrown to a lion in the Roman coliseum. The lion turns out to be Tommy, who in memory of past favors refuses to devour Androcles. There are riots, gladiator fights, a love story, comedy, music and pageantry . . . something to delight everyone of every age.

The Mountaineer Players have assembled a cast and staff of nearly 100 people to bring this colorful and exciting story to life. Presented in the inspiring setting of the Forest Theatre, it is a play you will long remember.

THE FOREST THEATRE

Situated in a 125 acre rhododendron and virgin timber reserve, the Forest Theatre is a unique and beautiful setting for an outdoor play. The playgoer follows a forest path bordered with hundreds of wild rhododendron blooms to a natural amphitheatre circling a rustic glade. Cedar bark covered with living moss forms the wings and giant firs tower over the settings to add a touch of grandeur to the spectacles. The Forest Theatre has delighted audiences for 28 years with its natural charm and has earned for itself a national reputation.

THE MOUNTAINEER PLAYERS

The Mountaineers are a non-profit organization of outdoor fanciers whose activities include mountain climbing, hiking, folk dancing and many others. The PLAYERS are Mountaineers who annually join together to produce a play in the Forest Theatre during the rhododendron season. Plays are produced solely for your enjoyment and any profits underwrite future performances.
